

Reflections #12: The Perfect Mix

As I read through the Bible, I can't help but be in awe of the amazing characteristics of God.

In today's scripture focus in Ezekiel, I see how the Lord always strikes the right balance.

As a parent, I know I sometimes struggled with finding the correct tone. I could be overly harsh or too permissive. It was difficult at times to not be swayed one way or the other.

But we can take our cue from God. Today we are going to reflect on Ezekiel 20:27-49, where we see God finding the perfect mix of righteous judgment and mercy. I can trust Him because I know He always has what's best in mind.

Just click on the sideways arrow to listen, or subscribe to our podcast on iTunes. Feel free to leave your comment below.

Pray on!

Jane