

Tips and Tools to Making Aromatherapy Products

Essential Oil Uses

As I've been studying aromatherapy over the last two years and starting my business, I've found some tips on essential oil uses that make life a little easier! I thought it might be helpful to share with you a few of the tools that I use when creating butters, balms, salves, synergies and all kinds of other fun things for my product line.

If I can save you you some time and frustration, then I'll know I've done my job. Just click on my Facebook Live video to see some of my favorite suggestions. Let me know what you think and please share any of your favorite items in the comment section.

Botanically yours,

Jane
